EMERGING SCHOLARS IN ACCOUNTING CONFERENCE 2019

CALL FOR PAPERS

The second Emerging Scholars in Accounting Conference will take place on October 14-15, 2019. The event will be hosted jointly by Frankfurt School of Finance & Management and Goethe University of Frankfurt as members of the Collaborative Research Center TRR 266 Accounting for Transparency.

The goal of the conference is to allow selected final stage PhD candidates and recent graduates to present their work in front of a critical but supportive audience, receive helpful feedback, and interact with Frankfurt and other TRR faculty as well as external guests. Seven papers will be presented. Presentations will be for 45 minutes in a regular (interactive) workshop format after which a discussant will discuss the paper for 15 minutes. Travel cost and accommodation of accepted presenters will be covered (at reasonable levels).

The application deadline is September 1, 2019. Please submit your CV and an extended abstract (one page) or full paper of the work you intend to present to accounting_conference@fs.de. Full papers will be required two weeks before the event. We invite submissions by final stage PhD candidates and recent graduates from all areas of accounting.

In case of any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Katharina Hombach (k.hombach@fs.de), Laurence van Lent (l.vanlent@fs.de), or Anna Rohlfing-Bastian (rohlfing-bastian@econ.uni-frankfurt.de).

About: The TRR 266 Accounting for Transparency is a trans-regional Collaborative Research Center funded by the German Research Foundation (Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft – DFG). As a team of more than 80 senior and junior researchers we examine how accounting and taxation affect firm and regulatory transparency and how regulation and transparency impact our economy and society. We intend to help develop effective regulation for firm transparency and a transparent tax system. Simultaneously, we ensure transparency of our own research. For more information, visit:
